UNITY IN KNOWLEDGE, PRIDE IN PROGRESS

The past three months at Institute of Pharmacy and Research, Badnera have been a remarkable journey of patriotism, knowledge sharing, and professional growth. As we bring together the highlights of this quarter, our theme “Unity in Knowledge, Pride in Progress” perfectly captures the spirit of our collective efforts.

We began this quarter by joining the nation in the Har Ghar Tiranga campaign and celebrating Independence Day, reminding ourselves that unity and pride in our heritage are the pillars of progress. Soon after, we celebrated Teachers’ Day, honoring the guiding lights who shape our paths, followed by Pharmacist Day, where we recognized the essential role of our profession in building a healthier society.

Alongside cultural and professional celebrations, our academic calendar was enriched with transformative learning experiences. Programs such as the GFC Program, guest lectures on SAS programming, and MKCL add-on courses expanded horizons for both students and faculty, bridging classroom knowledge with industry relevance.

This edition of the newsletter invites teachers and students alike to reflect, share, and celebrate. From patriotic expressions to professional insights, from academic learnings to creative writings—each article is a testament to our institute’s vision of nurturing not only skilled pharmacists but also responsible citizens of tomorrow.

As you turn these pages, may you feel the same pride and inspiration that drove these events. Let us continue to move forward together—united in knowledge, proud in our progress, and committed to shaping brighter futures.
